

AIES HOMEWORK POLICY

Homework is a natural extension of what children learn during the school day. It is intended to give children practice with newly learned skills or concepts, preparation for upcoming classroom events and discussions, application of previously learned skills and concepts, or creative opportunities to integrate skills and concepts. Homework that extends learning for children has a clear purpose, is sufficiently varied to allow for differentiated learning, and provides timely and appropriate feedback to the student.

Homework policy and procedures will be shared with parents and students by the teachers at the beginning of school. Homework may be assigned, such as required reading and/or math fact practice, at the discretion of the grade level team, per individual needs of learners, and per grade level agreements for maintaining balance between rigor and mental and physical wellness for students.
